DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claim 47 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. A computer program without a computer readable medium such as a CD or DVD is clearly considered non-statutory.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1, 3-46, 48-50, and 52-63 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Braun et al.

Braun et al teaches systems and methods for identifying a particular page a person is writing on with a digital pen. In one example, a paper form includes a barcode including a form version number. When a user is prepared to fill in the form, the digital pen checks a form data base to determine if the form version is acceptable. The pen 100 utilizes a wireless transceiver which is said to be a "Bluetooth" transceiver (see col. 3, lines 44-49). The "Bluetooth" is a well known handheld personal information device that addresses all of the conventional design features recited in the numerous dependent claims. At col.4, lines 15-21, it is recited that the "Bluetooth" includes a wireless connection to the Internet.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2 and 51 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: US Patent 6,962,450 (Brouhon et al) teaches the claimed "dot pattern" limitations but was filed September 10th of 2003, which is several months after the date of the Applicants provisional application 60/481,106 (July 18th of 2003).
